Mrs. Dexheimer, Who Disclosed Anarchists' Conspiracy to Kill the President, Lives in Fear of Their Vengeance.

In genuine terror of the vengeance of her former associates in the anarchist groups of this city and New Jersey. Mrs. Lena Dexhelmer is hiding in her home in Hoboken to-day. Mysterious men lurking about the place are said by the neighbors to be Government detectives who have been on watch ever since the woman revealed what says was a thrice folled plot to kill the President to a woman's meeting in the church to which she belongs last Thursday night. Mrs. Dexheimer is a tall, gaunt wom-with fair hair, light blue eyes and sharp features. She betrays no evidence of mental disorder save such as might arise from a natural fear that she will be killed by the Anarchists. There is no doubt about her thorough earnestness. If appearances count. She consented to see an Evening

The Herald continues: "To pursue the polley of apparent peace and harmony it was expedient to have Mrs. Molineux by her husband's side during the trial. She did not desire to go, but she was ready to appear in court again if Gen. Molineux insisted. She wished, however, to secure herself against want in the immediate future, and she asked for a stipulation that she should be supported until she could make satisfactory arrangements as to her future life. She had been getting $200 a month through Judge Olcott, and she thought that this should be continued. An arrangement was effected and word then went along the line that she would be by Molineux when the trial began.

"Of course, you must kiss him when you enter court," were the instructions.
